SUBJECT: Today's multi-agency training

Today, the New Mexico State University Police Department and Fire Department conducted a multi-agency active shooter training and crisis management exercise at two locations on the Las Cruces campus: the Aggie Health and Wellness Center and Rhodes-Garrett-Hamiel Hall.

This successful exercise was conducted in collaboration with other area first responders and law enforcement agencies and involved a simulation of NMSU's response plan. This type of training is part of our ongoing work to ensure a coordinated, timely and effective response and recovery during a major incident on our campus.

In the event of an actual emergency, the most updated information will be posted on the NMSU homepage, www.nmsu.edu. Critical information will also be disseminated by text, phone call and email to individuals who sign up to receive these alerts. To opt in for these messages, or to ensure your contact information is current, please visit https://etm.nmsu.edu/users/sign_in.

NMSU is a caring community and it's through our unified efforts that we support one another. I want to thank all of the emergency responders and additional personnel who participated in this exercise today for your work to help ensure that our campus is as safe as possible for all of our students and employees.
